

American artist Mary Negron lives in Cumming, Georgia. Her focus is capturing the beautiful Georgia outdoors through the colors of nature, light and atmosphere. Mixing a combination of contemporary, traditional, and impressionistic styles, the subject becomes an expression of these influences and not a reproduction.

Mary feels painting on location has a spontaneity, freshness that creates emotional ties to the completed artwork. Mary's work has earned her awards and spots in many Plein Air festivals and competitions around the country.
